Na'Son,

Based on the facts you presented the constable that issued the citations has earned the fee and would be entitled to be paid.

This is considered routine technical assistance and is not an official declaratory opinion of this office.

Good Morning Technical Support,

Will you help me investigate the following issue for the correct resolution?

On December 12, 2021, an individual paid three citations that were issued on July 31, 2004 by a former constable who no longer works with us. Are we supposed to pay the former constable for something from 2004?

Good morning Na'Son,

Yes, the constable is still due that fee from the county. The state fail statute would not cover it, because the state did not fail in the prosecution. As to the statute of limitations, it does apply, but the statute would not start running until the money was collected (2021).
